Sunday's Message

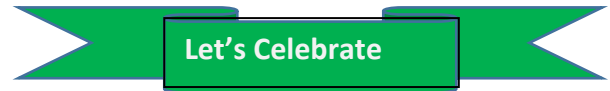

Reimagine Sunday School

Let's be intentional about how we deliver our lessons.

Marks of Great Teaching

1. Passion: It is a sin to bore people with the gospel.
2. Practicality: Ask each week about the application. Make suggestions.
3. Humor: It ought to be fun to come to class.
4. A Personal Element: Touch them where they live.
5. Involvement: If people are not involved, they are not learning.
6. Personal Preparation: You cannot look at a passage for the first time Saturday night and teach Sunday.
7. Background: Make sure there is a constant input of fresh information.
8. Introduction: Seize the people's attention the moment you begin.
9. Inspiration: Teaching is more than telling people what ought to happen. Inspire and motivate.
10. Focus: Have one "big" idea that you attempt to drive home throughout.

Reimagining Sunday School

As we start this new Sunday School year, I am continuing to challenge all to Reimagine Sunday School. The next time you are in Sunday School, look around to see what is different and what is the same. If you see more of “the same” in your class, and the way you engage with the lessons and people, you know that we have not yet “reimagined” what we do. The mission of the Sunday School compels us to make and grow others in their understanding and application of God’s word. Understanding and application engage all our senses (seeing, hearing, touching, smelling, and tasting). Ask yourself, am I just hearing the lesson? How can I see/experience the lesson?

How am I challenged to be/do the lesson in my everyday journey? Don’t settle for development in one area when all are available. While you continue to commit to attending Sunday School each Sunday (virtual or in person), ask for more. Our challenge for Sunday School is clear. Let’s imagine delivering more as you ask for more. Let’s Reimagine Sunday School together!
